The GUIDING THREAD

By
BEATRICE HARRADEN

Second Printing.

Author of "Ships That Pass in the Night," etc.

"It is an adventurous, joyous tale of one woman's feet upon the Broad Highway, . . . touched with a suggestion of mysticism, enriched with many encounters, many interesting interludes and people worth while; it is brightened with humor, very human, and deliberately but not forcedly optimistic."

—N. Y. Tribune.

KILDARES OF STORM

By Eleanor Mercein Kelly

A thrilling, dramatic story of modern Kentucky. Set in the Blue Grass and in the mountains. Narrates the intertwined love-stories of a mother and her two astonishing daughters. Has no relation whatever to the customary Kentucky "moonshine" fiction. Rich in the elements of popularity—movement, color, emotion. Frontispiece by Kimball.

L. H. HAMMOND

12mo. cloth. Net $1.00

Not since the publication of James Lane Allen's idyllic story, "The Kentucky Cardinal," have we had a more charming novelette than the present one. Its freshness lies in the excellent manner in which life is met in all its phases. There is no deep problem underlying the romance between the hero and the heroine. Their love story is beautifully observed and unaffectedly told, and the reader is left with a wholesome, happy feeling that God is in His Heaven and all is right with the world.

Apart from the story, this book is fraught with some of the most delicate nature descriptions; they are comparable in their minute observation of every changing mood in nature to many passages in the Journals of Dorothy Wordsworth.

The story is told in the first person, the narrator being confined to a wheel chair. The philosophy that emanates from her is of that big and all-embracing kind which sheds a beautiful light in every chapter.

This is a chant of young love. Its characters are simple country folk, well delineated and full of human interest; David, the hero, the new type of scientific farmer, with the clear vision of the psalmist; Caro, the heroine, true to her name, a vivacious little person, with all the lovable-ness of a capricious nature; a crusty old aunt and uncle of the typically severe kind; an old darky gardener, and the dear invalid herself.

NEW YORK
2 West 45th St.
Just WEST of 5th Ave.

Readers of "Captain Desmond, V. C.," "The Great Amulet," and "Candles in the Wind" will welcome the addition to this trilogy of another glowing Anglo-Indian tale, including the true story of the Tirah campaign. The Daughter has the strength of personality that one would expect form the offspring of so virile a character, and the scenes of Anglo-Indian life are the true, thrilling scenes that have won fame for the author.

You know the power of James B. Hendryx, from his story (for grown-ups) of lumber camps and Broadway, "The Promise." Here is one for younger readers, of a boy with pluck and hardihood in the Northland. There are twenty-two fascinating illustrations.

This new edition of the famous Sea classic will prove particularly popular. Printed from the same plates as the more expensive edition and illustrated by R. F. Zogbaum, with head-pieces by A. W. Van Deusen.

A consideration of Nationalism and Internationalism and of the relation of women to War.

The author tackles the problem with characteristic thoroughness and brings it into relation with education and the needed readjustment of traditional viewpoints.

The distinguished Director of the Solvay Institute of Sociology upholds Belgium's right to oppose the violation of her territory by Germany, citing with telling force the Treaty of 1839, and subsequent events of international importance, such as Lord Palmerston's action at the time of threatened French aggression in 1848.

These chapters emphasize the fact that from the first there have been divergences between English institutions as they were maintained and developed in the Old Country, and the similar social elements as transplanted and molded by the environment of a New World and the experience it afforded.

The views on German evolution both ethnological and sociological here set forth are not intended to foster national antagonism. They were conceived and are now set down in the spirit of Social Science.

From the opening chapters, which deal with a voyage in a clipper ship around the Horn and a wedding trip across the Isthmus in the fifties, to the record of the organization of the Bellevue Training School for Nurses, thence to chapters involving contact with many foreign notabilities in Europe and the Orient, this memoir, rich in personality and anecdote, offers the variety of interest that attaches to a replete and happy life.

The evolution and representative schools of the art from the time of the cave-dwellers to its heyday. Should appeal strongly, as did the author's earlier book, to the cultivated reader.

"BOOKS BOYS LIKE BEST"

LAST year the publication of the list of "Books Boys Like Best" was something of an experiment, as "Safety First Juvenile Book Week," for which the list was directly compiled, was itself an experiment. That both experiments made good is sufficiently proved by the enthusiastic determination to continue both this year—and indefinitely.

"Good Book Week"—the abbreviated title is an obvious improvement—comes this year December 4th to 9th. The "Books Boys Like Best" list appears, in revised and slightly enlarged form, as a supplement to next week's PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. It will be offered to the trade as last year in imprinted lots at duplicating cost, deliveries to be made in plenty of time for use in connection with local celebrations of "Good Book Week."

About 60,000 copies of this list were distributed, and carefully distributed, last year; we anticipate that this year the mark will be nearer 100,000 copies. It is impossible to gage in mere dollars and cents the results of the distribution of such a list as this, with the accompanying carefully-planned propaganda planned by the Boy Scout organization. That eventually, if carried on systematically and persistently for a period of years, with the active co-operation, not merely of the book trade and the Boy Scouts of America, but also of the libraries, the churches, the schools and all other educational institutions interested in the reading of adolescents, this campaign for better books will result in a raising of the whole standard of book reading and book buying in this country is indisputable.

There are abundant signs that the leaven is already at work. The high cost of paper is giving the death-blow, for one thing, to the cheapest paper-bound "thrillers," in both book and periodical form. Teachers and parents are becoming aroused to the desirability of buying better books—and more books—for children. Mr. Mathiews, Chief Scout Librarian of the Boy Scouts, who compiled the list of "Books Boys Like Best" (with the co-operation of an official "Library Commission"), in an article in the nature of a report in the current issue of the Library Journal, pointed out that he had had record that "Juvenile Book Week" was observed in more than 300 cities and towns thruout the country and that many periodicals and newspapers reprinted the book list in part or ran articles playing up "Book Week" and the general subject of better reading for boys and girls.

Here is opportunity for co-operation in the best sense. Thousands of copies of this book list are being distributed by various organizations, nearly all of them referring the reader to the bookseller. Last year, in promoting "Safety First Juvenile Book Week," the scout movement in its publicity was fortunate in securing the support of such magazines as The Outlook, The Woman's Home Companion and The Saturday Evening Post. This year, the promise is that national magazines of this class in larger number will lend their aid not only in giving publicity to "Good Book Week" but also in helping to make possible thru book-stores and libraries the general distribution of the list, "Books Boys Like Best." The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY itself is glad to do its share by guaranteeing the primary cost of "Books Boys Like Best."

Altho, as last year, the list itself will carry no advertising, publishers have an opportunity both to exploit their fall boys' books to the trade and to share in the expense of this propaganda for more and better children's books by advertisement in next week's PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, of which the book list is a part. It is not usual for the book publisher to bear the happy part of recipient in the many plans for book exploitation that are advanced. But since inclusion in the list is of itself of course the best sort of gratuitous advertising, there seems to be here one of those few cases where the publisher gets in any case more than he gives. It might be added that a careful selection of this year's books are listed in this 1916 edition of the list, not as "Books Boys Like Best," but as tentative candidates for inclusion in that select company.

PHILADELPHIA PLANS ENLARGED COURSE IN BOOKSELLING THIS WINTER

THE most ambitious and thoro course in bookselling ever undertaken in this country began its fall session at the William Penn High School in Philadelphia this week. The course, the scope of which is clear from its name, A Course in Book Salesmanship and Library Science, is a part of the regular evening school conducted by the Philadelphia School Board.

Instruction in bookselling was first begun by the Philadelphia schools in 1914 at the suggestion and with the co-operation of the Philadelphia Booksellers' Association. The first year, thirty were graduated from the school; this number was increased to fifty last year; and an even larger enrollment is looked for this year. The course in bookselling and library science is under the general superintendence of Dr. J. T. Rorer, principal of the William Penn High School, while Miss Bessie Graham is the instructor in charge. Miss Graham is a trained librarian, and in order to gain actual knowledge of the conditions which confront a book-clerk, she has worked as clerk on the floor of several Boston bookstores during a portion of the past summer.

The Philadelphia course furnishes an interesting contrast in method to the course given in New York. Whereas the latter course rather emphasizes the literary instruction, employing trained scholars in literature to give an appreciative survey of the world's literature, the prospectus of the Philadelphia school announces in italics: "In no respect is this course a study of literature, nor is any analysis or appreciative discussion of literary merit attempted."

The one course tends to approach book-selling thru literature, while the other might be said to approach literature thru bookselling.

Following is the schedule of instruction in the Philadelphia course:

First Term, October-December (12 weeks)

7.30 to 8.30, Monday.—Classification, Alphabeting.

8.30 to 9.30, Monday.—Reference Work (000).

7.30 to 8.30, Tuesday.—Book Listing: Four Dewey Classes—Philosophy (100), Religion (200), Sociology (300), Philology (400).

8.30 to 9.30, Tuesday.—Literature (800); Essays, Biography.

7.30 to 8.30, Wednesday.—Book Listing continued.

8.30 to 9.30, Wednesday.—Fiction, Juveniles.

Second Term, January-March (12 weeks)

7.30 to 8.30, Monday.—Cataloging, Classification schemes for special libraries.

8.30 to 9.30, Monday.—Magazines, Publishing Houses, Out-of-print books, Literature (800); Poetry, Drama.

7.30 to 8.30 Tuesday.—Book Listing—Science (500), Useful Arts (600), Fine Arts (700), History (900).

8.30 to 9.30, Tuesday.—Literature (800); Poetry, Drama.

7.30 to 8.30, Wednesday.—Book Listing continued.

8.30 to 9.30, Wednesday.—Fiction, Juveniles.

The course is based on the 10 classes, divisions, and sections of literature as outlined in the Dewey classification system for libraries. "Book Listing" covers the eight Dewey classifications known as Philosophy, Religion, Sociology, Philology, Science, Useful Arts, Fine Arts, and History. The first periods on Tuesdays and Wednesdays will be devoted to the listing of books in each of these class-divisions, the work extending over both terms, and allowing 6 hours to each class-division. The other 2 divisions of Dewey, the 000's—Reference books—and the 800's—Literature—being very extensive, will be studied separately on Mondays and Tuesdays, second period. Fiction and Juveniles, which fall outside of the Dewey system, will be studied on Wednesday, second period. This period, the final period of the week, will be kept more or less open, in order that outside speakers may address the class on the commercial side of bookselling.

The first and second periods each evening are distinct and may be taken apart, as each has a unity of its own. Book salespeople and library workers, whenever possible, are urged to take the course completely, involving attendance Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings from 7.30 to 9.30; those unable to do this and those desiring a more limited knowledge of the subject may take Monday courses alone, or Tuesday and Wednesday courses combined. The second term may be taken by itself. Special permission may be granted to combine the first or second hour of this course with other one-hour courses of the school.

The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will in all probability be the "text-book" of the course, each student having his own copy. Using the WEEKLY bibliographies and Dewey's "Decimal Classification and Relative Index," the students will each week make up bibliographies and do similar work with the actual books of the day. As each division and subdivision in Dewey is taken up, the instructor will run over the leading writers and works in this specific field. Ready access to the school library will facilitate such work.

Among the special speakers for the Wednesday evenings will be Mr. Henkels, on book auctions; Mr. Stuart, of Leary's, on second-hand books; Mr. Rosenbach on rare books; Miss Dow, of the School of Industrial Art, on bookbinding; Mr. T. Wilson Hedley, of the Mercantile Library, on library work; various publishers, not yet named, on the publishing side. One evening will also be given up to the Doubleday, Page pictures on the Making of a Book.

There is a regular entrance examination for the course, the candidates who possess credentials of two years' work in high school English and employees who bring commendatory letters from bookstores and libraries are exempt from the entrance examination. This year men are to be admitted to the course for the first time. Tuition is free.

About two-thirds of the pupils in the school are employees in the book-trade, while the other third are librarians. The Philadelphia booksellers are actively boosting the school; Gimbel Bros., for instance, are enrolling their entire force for the coming year.

FRANCE SENDS PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE HERE TO PUSH FRENCH BOOKS

M. JEAN ALCIDE PICARD, former organizer and manager of the French book department of Scribner's retail store and for the past two years a soldier in northern France, has been recalled from the trenches by his government and sent to this country by the French publishers' association as a permanent agent for their publications. M. Picard hopes ultimately to establish a regular jobbing service in this country, from which all French books can be supplied promptly to American dealers. For the present, however, his efforts will be confined to supplying material for such newspapers and magazines as are able to give space to notices of important French books, to furnishing professors, lecturers and librarians with information on the latest publications, and to furthering the sale of French literature thru the American book-trade. In line with this last, M. Picard hopes to make himself headquarters in this country for all booksellers desiring information about French books. He will advise and assist in the organization of French book departments, and one feature of his work will be the distribution of classified lists and catalogs of the latest publications, with suggestions as to what classes the books will make an appeal.

M. Picard's coming to this country is another manifestation of the propaganda in favor of French culture which France has recently begun and upon which we have already had occasion to comment. Mixed with this motive is the natural desire of French publishers to further the sale of their product. Efforts have been made by various publishers in the past to reach the American market, but these independent efforts have met with only partial success. Since the outbreak of the war, however, the various agencies have begun to co-operate in their attempts to reach our market, and in this the French government has constantly assisted them. The Agence générale de librairie, acting for a group of publishers, sent M. Rouquette here to represent the French publishers at the San Francisco exposition and to report on the condition of the trade in French books in this country. After several months spent on this side, M. Rouquette has just returned to Paris. The Syndicat d'exportation du livre français, a new organization, including some of the most important publishing houses, has also been seeking information regarding the market here for French publications. The Cercle de la librairie, the central organization of all departments of the book-trade, the Comité du livre, composed of prominent men in literary, artistic and university centers not directly connected with the trade, and the Société des gens de lettres, or authors' association, are all lending what assistance they can; at the time of the Book Fair at Lyons, in April, these three last-named organizations arranged for a Congrès des industries du livre (see PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, June 10, 1916), to be held in October, and at which they will discuss thoroly the various aspects of the foreign and domestic book trade.

The French government is actively assisting in the furtherance of all these plans thru the ministry of commerce, the ministry of education, the committee on foreign affairs, and its press bureau.

TRADE OUTLOOK IN CANADA GOOD

Special Correspondence to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

Toronto, October 2.—A distinct improvement in the book business thruout Canada is reported by representatives of Toronto publishers and wholesale booksellers who are at present making their usual autumn rounds of the trade. While sales do not approach in volume those of three and four years ago, they are well ahead of the past two years and the tone is generally quite hopeful. One publisher states that his Winnipeg orders this season are treble those of a year ago, while in Calgary and Edmonton he is running about 60 per cent. better. Other publishers confirm this statement by saying that western business with them is much larger than in the fall of 1915.

Fall lists as issued to date by Canadian publishers, make a very fair showing. In point of length they seem to be quite up to the average, while in quality they must be regarded as establishing a very good standard, all things considered. As usual the offerings of American and British publishers have been drawn on to form the backbone of the lists, American fiction being predominant on the one hand and English war books, etc., on the other.

The Canadian end of the fall lists is not, as might be expected, overly strong. Publishing houses which are usually to be counted on for several good Canadian titles are bringing out little or nothing; the bulk of the season's Canadian productions are to be found in the lists of two or three establishments. The result is that there are only a few books of outstanding merit to mention.

"The Life and Letters of Sir Charles Tupper, Bart.," which appears with the imprint of the House of Cassell, is probably the most important Canadian book of the season. It is largely autobiographical in character, consisting of extracts from the late statesman's journals and selections from his correspondence. The compiler's name does not appear in the announcement, tho it is known that the work has been performed by the late Dr. E. M. Saunders, who was a lifelong friend and admirer of Sir Charles. In the realm of the biographical, another interesting volume which will also make its appearance this fall is "Sons of Canada," an attempt to do for outstanding figures in Canadian national life what A. G. Gardiner did for British and continental notabilities in his "Prophets, Priests and Kings." The author of this work is Augustus Bridle, a clever Canadian journalist, who is at present editor of the Canadian Courier. He has a special talent for writing character sketches and his friends expect to find something highly entertaining in his forthcoming book, which, by the way, is being published by J. M. Dent & Sons.

The War is not playing quite as large a part in Canadian literature as one might expect tho perhaps that is a development that should not be expected too soon. What is apparently the first serious attempt, apart from the official account compiled by the eye witness, Sir Max Aitken, to narrate the part played by Canadians in the early part of the war, is contained in a volume entitled "The Red Watch; with the First Canadian Division in Flanders," which has been written by Col. J. A. Currie, M.P. It is being published this fall by McClelland, Goodchild & Stewart. Another war book to appear this season is "With a Field Ambulance at Ypres," by William Boyd, professor of pathology in the University of Manitoba, who went thru the campaign of 1915 with the A. M. C. It bears the imprint of the Musson Book Co. "Canada Chaps," by J. G. Sime, makes the third of a trio of books bearing on the war, this one being a series of sketches of Canadian soldiers. It is published by S. B. Gundy. A second volume of "Canada in Flanders," the work of Sir Max Aitken and his staff, is scheduled for fall publication by Hodder & Stoughton.

Of fiction, the fall season of 1916 is conspicuously bare. Story writers, who might usually be counted on for novels, do not figure in the lists at all. "Rod of the Lone Patrol," by H. A. Cody, published by McClelland, and "The Homesteaders," Robert J. C. Stead, published by the Musson Book Co., are practically the only purely Canadian novels of the season. Sir Gilbert Parker's story of the Canadian Northwest, "The World for Sale," Arthur Stringer's "The Door of Dread," and Hulbert Footner's "The Fur Bringers," while by Canadian authors in a sense, are not really to be classed as native literature. "The Wandering Dog," by Marshall Saunders, (Copp, Clark), and "Prince Melonseed," a fairy story by Mrs. E. F. Cheffey, Vancouver, (Briggs), are two juveniles by Canadian authors.

But if Canada is weak in other lines, she has always a good account to give of herself in the matter of poetry. The present season sees quite a number of volumes of verse appear. "The Collected Poems of Marjorie Pickthall," published by Gundy; "The Crown of Empire and other Poems," by Canon Frederick George Scott, First Canadian Division, (Musson); "The Watchman and other Poems," by L. M. Montgomery, author of "Anne of Green Gables," etc., (McClelland); "Lundy's Lane and other Poems," by Duncan Campbell Scott, (McClelland); "The Witch of Endor," by Robert Norwood, (McClelland), are all books of a high order of literary merit and together form a collection that would be hard to equal anywhere. And supplementing them, one might mention an interesting volume, which McClelland, Goodchild & Stewart are publishing this fall,—"Canadian Poets," chosen and edited by John W. Garvin, a book which deals sympathetically with the work of all the leading Canadian poets.

Books on social and kindred questions are never wanting. This time one notes such works as "Canada's Future: What she offers after the War," a symposium of official opinion compiled by E. A. Victor and published by the Macmillan Co. of Canada; "The Woman,—Bless Her," by Marjory MacMurchy, being an account of the economic and social contribution of Canadian women; "The Red Cow," by Peter McArthur, the Canadian humorist, who deals in light and entertaining fashion with some of the problems of the agriculturalist. Akin to these is "The Cockpit," a really important addition to the literature of the Irish question by Lindsay Crawford, a young Irish journalist now on the staff of the Toronto Globe.

"Mounted Police Life in Canada," by Captain R. Burton Deane, which Cassell & Co. publish; "Red Indians of the Plains," by the Rev. J. Hines, and "The Last Voyage of the Karluk," by Robert A. Bartlett and Ralph T. Hale, published by McClelland, are three contributions to the literature of travel and description.

Of miscellaneous interest are "The Beech Woods," by Duncan Armbrest, a volume of natural history; "The Grand Adventure," a volume of sermons by the Rev. Robert Law, D.D., a famous Canadian preacher; "Letters from my Home in India," by a well-known Canadian missionary, Mrs. George Churchill; "Shakespeare for Community Players," by Roy Mitchell, a young Toronto journalist and dramatist, and "The Book of Sorrow," a compilation by Capt. Andrew Macphail of the Canadian Army Medical Corps.

BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATIONS

MEETING OF AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION BOARD OF TRADE

AN enthusiastic and what may prove one of the most important meetings of the Board of Trade held in some time was held at the Park Avenue Hotel, Thursday, September 21, practically the full board being present. After luncheon the board proceeded with current business, chief of which was a discussion of two questions.

Regarding the first, namely, the proposition recently advanced that publishers should handle library business on a definite commission basis to booksellers, the following resolution was, after discussion, unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That this Board cannot approve the direct solicitation of library business by the publishers either with or without a trade allowance."

There has arisen a rather definite feeling in the trade as represented in the American Booksellers' Association Board of Trade that certain trade evils may best be met by an attempt to formulate certain basic principles which should govern the dealings of the book trade in its respective parts. In response to this feeling the following resolution was submitted for consideration and discussion:

"Resolved, That the Publishers and Jobbers of the United States and territories be individually requested to sell their publications only to merchants engaged in the selling of books and for a profit, especially, one who has a place of sale and a stock of goods, a trader, a buyer to sell again."

It was not intended that the above phraseology should be considered anything more than tentative; but the discussion which followed, which continued for several hours, was most interesting and showed very clearly the importance of the question which the resolution embodied. Altho the sentiment of the board was very strongly in favor of the spirit of the resolution as presented, and recognized the justness of the principle involved, it was decided to take no definite action until further investigation and discussion had been had. On motion three committees were appointed by the chair, one to investigate the relations of wholesaler, jobber and retailer, respectively, in other lines of merchandising in this country; one to formulate the advantages of the proposed plan to the retail book trade; and a third to formulate the possible objections which might be raised to the plan by the publishers.

OBITUARY NOTES

PAUL J. LOIZEAUX, 75 years old, founder of the religious publication house of Loizeaux Brothers, of New York City, and for half a century engaged in evangelistic work, died on October 4 in North Plainfield, N. J.

THOMAS MARTINDALE, author of "Sport Indeed," "With Gun and Guide," and "Hunting in the Upper Yukon," died in the Yukon on September 20. Mr. Martindale had gone to Alaska for material for a new book.

BENJAMIN KIDD, author of many sociological works, died October 2 at his home in South Croydon, England, in his sixty-ninth year. He was the author of "Social Evolution," 1894; "The Control of the Topics," 1898; "Principles of Western Civilisation," 1902; articles on the Application of the Doctrine of Evolution to Sociological Theory (Prefatory Essay, vol. xxix.) and Sociology, in the Suppl. 9th ed. Ency. Brit., 1902; Herbert Spencer Lecture, delivered before University of Oxford, 1908; "The Two Principal Laws of Sociology," 1909. His works have been widely translated.

PERSONAL NOTES

WILLIAM BAYNE, 3d, formerly on the staff of Vanity Fair, has been appointed advertising manager of the New Republic, with headquarters in New York.

CAPTAIN IAN HAY BEITH, of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, author of "The First Hundred Thousand," arrived in this country on September 29, to deliver a series of lectures on the war.

THE WILL of the late Harris Brisbane Dick leaves nearly $1,000,000 to the Metropolitan Museum of Art for the purchase of paintings. He also left the Museum the remainder interest in a trust fund of $45,000 set apart for life for his business associate, Howard Abendroth. Mr. Dick left a number of bequests for the establishment of beds in a number of hospitals and homes, and $500 to each employee who had been with his firm more than five years, and $100 each to the employees of more than one year's service.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

THE ABINGDON PRESS is bringing out this fall "Recovered Yesterdays in Literature," by Bishop William A. Quayle. A series of essays on men, women, and literature.

SINCE SEPTEMBER 21—publication date—the Britton Publishing Co. have received reports of seventy-two window displays of "Georgina of the Rainbows" in various parts of the country.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce Coningsby Dawson's new romance, "Slaves of Freedom," for October 10th. The story in book form will be much fuller than the version which has been appearing in Good Housekeeping.

AN OCTOBER 13 publication of interest to many readers on this side of the water will be Ellen Key's "War, Peace, and the Future" (Putnam), which discusses the problems of nationalism and internationalism and the relation of women to war.

WE HAVE SAID in years gone by about all that can be said in praise of the excellent illustrated trade catalog of the American News Co. This year's catalog, just out, is in every respect the equal of its predecessor and in one respect superior—it is several pages larger.

ALFRED A. KNOPF announces for fall publication "Pointed Roofs," by Dorothy Richardson, the first volume of a trilogy entitled "Pilgrimage"; "Pointed Roofs" will have an introduction by J. D. Beresford. Miss Richardson is a new writer and her trilogy will trace the journey of an English girl of charm thru the most interesting part of her life.

"ANNE, PRINCESS OF EVERYTHING," a tale of the real and the unreal by Blanche Elizabeth Wade, will be published by Sully & Kleinteich on October 20. Anne Lane's life is most unextraordinary—quite the life any little girl leads—until she comes to New York on a shopping trip with her aunt, when the magic begins and she becomes a magical princess.

"IN THE GARDEN OF DELIGHT," a romance by L. H. Hammond, was published this week by the Thomas Y. Crowell Co. The characters in the story are simple country folk: David, a farmer; Caro, the heroine; a severe old aunt and uncle; an old negro gardener, and the narrator of the story, an invalid confined to a wheel-chair.

AMONG THE FALL PUBLICATIONS of the Saalfeld Co. are a new "Billy Whiskers" book, in which that astonishing goat follows his previous visits to Panama, San Francisco, the Mississippi and a dozen other points with a visit "Out West"; "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" and "Peter Rabbit and His Pa" in new editions illustrated by Virginia A. Albert; and "Summer Snow and Other Fairy Plays," a volume of plays for amateurs and children.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish Jackson Gregory's new Western novel, "The Short Cut," on October 14. The two Shandon boys, Arthur and Wayne, own a ranch. Arthur is killed and as he had quarrelled violently with his brother the night before, suspicion is directed toward Wayne. Financial complications, old-fashioned villains, a horse race in which Wayne comes out victor, and last but not least, the daughter of the capitalist of the section, all go to make up the new romance.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. will publish late this month two additions to their Practical Book Series, the "Practical Book of Early American Arts and Crafts," by Harold Donaldson Eberlein and Abbot McClure, and the "Practical Book of Architecture," by C. Matlack Price. The latter is not only for the man or woman who wishes to build a home, but a book which also tells the general reader what he needs to know about architecture—about the buildings he sees in America or Europe, public as well as private.

A NEW BOOK on the theatre, by Brander Matthews, was published this week by Charles Scribner's Sons. The scope of the volume is indicated by its title, "A Book About the Theatre"; there is a chapter on the limitations of the stage, one on dramatic collaboration, one on the dramatization of novels and the novelization of plays, and scene-painting, the opera, the dance, pantomime, negro minstrelsy, the variety show, magic, Punch and Judy, puppets, and the big Broadway production all have their place in the book.

THE GEORGE H. DORAN Co. will publish this month two books which in theme, manner and style are diametrically opposed: "The Complete Gentleman," by Bohun Lynch, is a serious and almost ponderous study in the realistic style of a young Englishman who makes rather a mess of life, while "The Unknown Mr. Kent" is a bubbling, Graustarkian romance of a young American who invades a tiny European kingdom, rescues the nearly-deposed Prince of the realm, and fights his way to the heart of the beautiful Princess, to a rattling accompaniment of slashing duels, hand-to-hand encounters and hair-breadth escapes.

GEORGE GIBBS has written a new novel, "Paradise Garden," which D. Appleton & Co. expect to publish at the end of September. The book was originally scheduled for October publication, but the publication date has been advanced. The new story chronicles the experiences of a young man, who thru the will of an eccentric father, is raised in total ignorance of woman until he is twenty-one years of age, and then is turned out into the world with, of course, remarkably interesting experiences.

THOSE ARM-CHAIR VOYAGERS who have sailed the seas with Hakluyt, Sir John Franklin, Captain Cook and other adventurers of the past will welcome Hendrik Willem van Loon's "Golden Book of the Dutch Navigators," which the Century Co. will publish October 12. Dr. van Loon, of the Department of European History at Cornell, has collected his material for this book from ancient accounts of the intrepid Dutch mariners of two centuries ago, many of which are now almost inaccessible, and has condensed, simplified and vivified them for the modern reader. The many pictures in the book are reproduced from authentic old prints.

"THE QUEST OF THE QUAIN" is the title of a new volume for collectors and those interested in antiques and kindred subjects, from the pen of Miss Virginia Robie, to be published October 14, by Little, Brown & Co. Miss Robie, until recently editor of The House Beautiful, has made a long study of old furniture, china, prints, etc., and is the author of "Historic Styles in Furniture," "By-Paths in Collecting," etc. Her new volume, "The Quest of the Quain," deals with such little-written-about subjects as band-boxes, silhouettes, valentines, candlesticks, and a host of other topics to delight the heart of the collector.

AMONG THE JUVENILES on the Stokes fall list are: The Demings' "American Animal Life," a book of wild animals in an Indian setting by one of the greatest painters of Indian life, with text by Mrs. Deming; "The Boys' Prescott," by Helen Ward Banks, a version of Prescott's "Conquest of Mexico" for young people; "The Story of the United States" by Marie L. Herdman, a new book in the series of story histories in which "An Island Story," "Scotland's Story" and others are familiar; "Inventing for Boys," by A. Frederick Collins; "The War, 1916, for Boys and Girls," by Elizabeth O'Neill, which brings up to date the history of the war begun in two earlier volumes; and a number of books for smaller children by Rose O'Neill and others.

HENRY C. ROWLAND, known to readers of the Saturday Evening Post, is the author of "Filling His Own Shoes," just published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. The hero is Ruggles, who at the opening of the story is a retail salesman in the European branch of the American Walk-Easy Shoe Company. Ruggles meets a young girl of an impoverished English family, and imagines himself in love with her, but is rejected when his profession is disclosed. Disheartened, he leaves Paris for the Bulgarian War, where he wins the affections of a wealthy Turk, who, dying, leaves him a palace, a fortune of two and a half million pounds, and the guardianship of four beautiful girls in his harem whom he has adopted as daughters. This, of course, leads to some amusing complications, particularly after the return of the party to Paris.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. announce the opening of a Subscription Department in addition to their present trade business. The first publication is an important set of 12 volumes, "The Library of Modern Thought," including a comprehensive collection of volumes on psychology, philosophy, sociology, Christianity and allied subjects. Among the contributors are Professor Freud, Dr. Jung, Sir Oliver Lodge, Alfred Russell Wallace, Dr. Gerald Leighton, Dr. C. W. Saleeby, Professor Münsterberg, Edwin B. Holt, H. Addington Bruce, Dr. Isador Coriat, Scott Nearing, Bolton Hall, Dr. Eduard Hitschmann, and Dr. Alfred Adler. Robert Appleton, grandson of Daniel Appleton, the founder of D. Appleton & Co., and until recently president of the Robert Appleton Co., publishers of "The Catholic Encyclopedia," has been in charge of the selection of the units embodied in this set, and will be at the head of the new subscription department of Moffat, Yard & Co.

A PRELIMINARY STATEMENT of the results of the 1914 census of manufactures of paper and wood pulp, issued by S. L. Rogers, director of the Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce, gives a comparative summary of the status of the business in 1909 and in 1914 as follows:

	Census. 1914.	Per cent. of in- crease.

*In addition, in 1914, 9 establishments, engaged primarily in the manufacture of paper boxes and roofing materials and in other industries, produced paper and pulp to the value of $2,767,407; and in 1909, 15 establishments of this character manufactured $2,567,267 worth of paper and pulp.

†A minus sign denotes decrease.

THE RECENT INCREASE by Congress in the free import price limit on news print paper coming into the United States from two and one-half cents to five cents was, according to the Fourth Estate, a "tactical mistake," so far as the newspapers are concerned, and has opened the market into the United States for a class of wood book papers selling here from three and one-half to five cents, which are used in enormous quantities, with profits to the manufacturers even greater than in the news print field. Already the sales forces of two of the very large news print mills in Canada, the Fourth Estate says, are in this country seeking orders for wood book paper of the higher grades, and the managers of these mills are making plans for mill changes to enable them to take on this class of business. The plans contemplate taking off 200 tons per day of news print and substituting a like tonnage of high-grade wood book paper, which should, if carried thru, be of some slight help to the book and periodical paper situation.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

THOMAS F. MADIGAN has compiled a most useful "Biographical Index of American Public Men," classified and alphabetically arranged, as well as thoroly indexed, which, as described in the sub-title, is "a handbook and check list for autograph collectors, librarians, etc." The various lists include the Presidents, Signers of the Declaration of Independence, the Continental Congress, Generals of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, the Colonial Governors and other historical groups, arranged so as to provide the essential data relating to twenty-two hundred men more or less prominent in the annals of American history. It is a handy manual of reference for bibliographers, historians and editors, as it groups information in a way that otherwise would be difficult to garner for quick use.

Harrison, Mrs. Mary St. Leger Kingsley [Mrs. W: Harrison, Lucas Malet, pseud.]. Damaris; a novel. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 400 p. D $1.40 n.

Anglo-Indian story which draws its determining elements from the previous fifteen years of Commissioner Verity's life. He and Damaris, his wise-knowing daughter of five, were entertaining Mrs. Pereira. She roused the old feeling between Verity and herself, and became Damaris's first love, what proved a consuming passion. Mrs. Pereira and Verity were planning to throw over everything and start again in a border kingdom. Then she heard the settlement talk, and civilized mid-Victorian that she was, decided it was not worth the candle. So she fled back to her husband. Damaris grieved so for her that there was little hope for her life. Verity rose from a vigil by her side in which he saw all his light and sordid loves as part of the price Damaris was paying. He sent for Mrs. Pereira, and went on a journey elsewhere, forswearing women forever.

Interest centers about an estate of one hundred acres, upon which lived Velviny Craith, novelist, philanthropist, reformer. Because she loved to see people happy she took the peculiar method of offering her home as a refuge to all the needy who came her way—old and crippled people, ex-convicts, and a blind baby. The nearby town was in the hands of dishonest politicians. The boss's tool was a Southern gentleman with the besetting sin of drink. Velviny Craith determined to rescue this man, and get him to save the town.

Royle, Edn. Milton. Peace and quiet; a novel. N. Y., Harper. c. 398 p. col. front. D $1.35 n.

Nobody took Thaddeus Castleman seriously, not even himself, except once. That was when he and a Mexican were in the same cell awaiting execution for smuggling arms into Mexico for the wrong side. Tad awoke to find Galboa gone and himself mysteriously released. He came back to Washington, eager to see Miss Tranquillity Buck; but he was immediately sent back to Mexico as a secret agent with a life-sized job to pull off. Of course his game now was to fool everyone as much as possible. He did this so well that he had a long wait for peace and quiet, which is another way of saying Tranquillity.

Sabin, Edn. Lagrand. With Sam Houston in Texas; a boy volunteer in the Texas struggle for independence, when in the years 1835-1836 the Texas colonists threw off the unjust rule of Mexico, and by heroic deeds established, under the guidance of the bluff Sam Houston, their own free republic which to-day is the great Lone Star State; with il. by C. Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in any one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

BOOK-FINISH

THE BINDING MATERIAL

Noted for Its Durability.

Attractiveness and Adaptability

BOOK-FINISH FABRIKOID
is the result of extended experimentations by a practical bookbinder to determine the exact requirements of a material for book-bindings exposed to severe and constant service.

BOOK-FINISH FABRIKOID has the popular grain finish of leather, the colors which good taste and service demand, is immune from insect attacks and

Is Impervious to Moisture

BOOK-FINISH FABRIKOID cuts, pastes, binds, stamps and cases same as leather. Every inch is uniform in texture,—no defective, tender, imperfect sections as frequently appear in leather. Leading binderies have adopted
BOOK-FINISH FABRIKOID and after exhaustive tests they pronounce it superior to much of the leather now available.

Improve your production, reduce material costs and popularize your bindings. Adopt BOOK-FINISH FABRIKOID—the superior leather substitute expressly made for book bindings.

Working samples, application instructions and prices supplied on request.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in SEPTEMBER, 1916

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following

MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

There Are Different Ways of Getting New Customers

A great majority of our customers come to us through the recommendations of those whose work we have handled to their satisfaction. The following is from the publisher of a recent book:

"The book is well printed and nicely bound, and is a credit to the Vail-Ballou Co."

We believe that no concern possesses an asset that is comparable in value with a long list of satisfied customers.

TAPLEY—the "Sterling Mark" in Bookmaking

Have you ever asked a competitor or customer of ours what he thinks of Tapley? Either will tell you "if Tapley makes it, you can depend on your book being made right!"

We have been building that reputation since 1850.

AESOP'S FABLES

with illustrations by

F. OPPER

The famous cartoonist

100 Pictures --- 8 in color --- $1.50 net

If a magic wand could make old Æsop's friends, the Ape, the Fox, the Crow, the Crane, the Eagle, the Lamb, the Raven, the Cock, the Wolf, the Cat, the Frog, the Mouse, and the rest of the glorious company, come to life to examine the twentieth century editions of the fables of which they are the heroes, they would doff their hats to Mr. Opper and say: "You have the humor, the fun, the wisdom, and the spirit of us all—thank you!"
